Threatened Officer With an Axe.

The police were given a great deal of trouble Saturday afternoon when they tried to arrest Thomas Tennant who resides near the Horseshoe Bridge. The man had been drinking and upon arriving at his home drove the rest of his family out of doors. Mrs. Tennant notified the police and Officer McArthur was sent to the house to put the man under arrest. The officer was forced to break into the house through a window as Tennant had barricaded himself and stood guard, axe in hand. As soon as Officer McArthur had broken into the house ax, which, however, did not reach its mark. The officer notified Chief E. H. Richmend of what he had done and of being struck with an axe. The chief and Officer McArthur returned to the house and broke in one of the doors which Tennant had refused to open. Threatened Officer With an Axe. and Officer McArthur returned to the house and broke in one of the doors which Tennant had refused to open. Entrance was gained so quickly that the man was taken by surprise and he was in the grasp of the two officers before he could swing the axe. He was taken to the station house where he denied that he made a pass ata Officer McArthur with the axe.
